

Thin Places, Sacred Spaces G220242 Carol Lea Clark

FEBRUARY 20-26, 2022

Let me welcome you to a magical week of writing and chatting about our experiences with thin places—spaces where heaven and earth come closer, where it seems possible to sense or glimpse across the divide between.

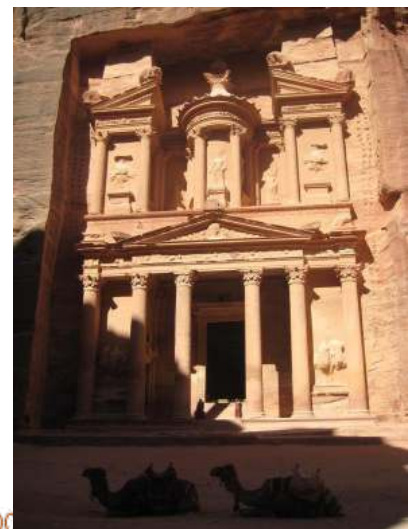

•Writer Eric Weiner explains, “Heaven and earth, the Celtic saying goes, are only three feet apart, but in thin places that distance is even shorter.” Think St. Peter’s Basilica in Vatican City, Petra in Jordan, or Sequoia National Park.

•Our own Ghost Ranch is, to many, a thin space —its dramatic, otherworldly beauty entralls, inspires, reverences, even jolts us out of usual ways of looking at the world. Few come away from a Ghost Ranch experience unchanged.

What to Expect:

- We’ll meet twice each day—morning and evening—to write about your own experiences with thin places—Ghost Ranch or around the world—both in group activities and on your own. Add visuals to your text if you wish.
- We’ll also discuss together how other writers and mystics have written about such special places. I’ll provide handouts of quotes.

- We'll share our writing in group and reminisce about places and experiences that have touched us deeply.
- You'll have afternoons free to explore Ghost Ranch or write.
- Come away with a fresh perspective and a collection of new and thoughtful texts.
- All levels of writers welcome.

See you soon!
